
Celebrating International Literacy Day

Pune, Maharashtra | 8th September, 2023

To remind students about the importance of literacy for the betterment of communities, societies, and individuals, an International Literacy Day Special Assembly was organised by Green House students and faculty on 8th September, 2023.

Grade III students performed a skit and dance to show importance of literacy in our life. They also presented a song to depict importance of teachers. They explained the meaning of literacy and gave information on the number one literate state in India, and country in the world.

One student even went on to present a poem on literacy that emphasized: if we are not literate then there is no value of our life. Primary teacher, Ms. Ankita Thakare explained the importance of books in our life, and how reading helps us to not only grow individually but also contribute positively to society.

Overall, it was a great eye-opening performance by all the students of the Green House. Through this, students understood and realized the importance of literacy in our life so as to better our communities, societies, and individuals.
